

high school

writing camp

2016

The Greater Madison Writing Project and Olbrich Gardens are sponsoring a four-day camp for high school writers (entering grades 9-12). The High School Writers Camp will end with a celebration of writing Friday, August 5th where writers will share their favorite pieces from the week for their families and friends.

writers can expect to:

Write in a supportive environment, led by a staff of Greater Madison Writing Project Fellows and experienced teachers of writing whose goal is to inspire and support writers of all abilities.

Engage in the writing process, (generating ideas, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) while exploring a variety of genres, including poetry, creative nonfiction, personal narratives, and short stories.

Learn new writing techniques and ways to respond to writing through peer review and writing groups.

Meet other writers from the Madison area and share writing with them each day during 'Author's Chair.'

Contribute a piece of writing to be published in an anthology.

WHEN

August 2-5, 2016
9am-2pm

WHERE

SIGN UP

Early Bird registration due by May 1st*

* Early Bird Registration for the camp is due by May 1st at the reduced rate of $200. After May 1st, registration is $250.

register here »

or visit tinyurl.com/jhjdtrp